Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 3-6, 9, 11-14, 24, 26 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lewis et al (U.S.P. 6,420,008) in view of Akram (U.S.P. 6,785,144) and further in view of Kohama et al (U.S.P. 6,412,701).

The patent to Lewis et al discloses an electrically active textile article comprising fabric (see col. 3, lines 55-58), a circuit (46, Fig. 2) on a flexible substrate (14, Fig. 1) secured to the fabric (see col. 3, lines 21-24 and lines 55-58 and col. 4, lines 38-39), and at least one electronic component (e.g. the electronic components that are connected to form the Binary Counter shown in Fig. 2) populating the circuit. The flexible substrate (14, Fig. 1) is a printed circuit board. It would have been obvious to construct the circuit with traces and pads as suggested by Akram (see col. 4, lines 51-62) since these traces and pads are commonly used in printed circuit boards to interconnect various electronic components. Also an adhesive rather than a thermoplastic reflow process such as ultrasonic welding secures the fabric. The disclosure of Kohama et al. teaches ultrasonic welding as a means for securing fabrics with circuits. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to provide the securing means as a thermoplastic reflow process such as ultrasonic welding rather than adhesive in order to provide a more permanent attachment of the fabrics. With regard to claim 9, note protective covering (12).

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lewis et al in view of Akram in view of Kohama et al (U.S.P. 6,412,701) and further in view of Bennion (U.S.P. 4,774,434).

The protective covering of the combined teachings is not set forth as being waterproof. To construct the protective covering of Lewis et al from a waterproof material as suggested by Bennion (at col. 1, lines 61-64) would have been obvious since the circuit would be protected from malfunctioning in a wet environment.

Claims 7, 8, 15-23, and 25 remain withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/16/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Lewis teaches away from using ultrasonic welding since the adhesive of Lewis allows for removal of the flexible circuit from the fabric. While Lewis does show a flexible substrate being secured with an adhesive, it remains the examiner's opinion that substituting a more permanent type of securing such ultrasonic welding would allow for greater durability in the finished product. Moreover, a flexible circuit ultrasonically welded to a fabric is still capable of being removed from the fabric.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
